K.I.D.S./Fashion Delivers launches a new brand and is renamed Delivering Good, reflecting our unique role of helping people in need with new product. In 2016, a record amount of over $200 million in new product was donated.

Kids In Distressed Situations and Fashion Delivers merge to work with the fashion, home and children’s industries to help kids, adults and families facing poverty and disasters.

Then-Senator Barack Obama speaks about America’s “empathy deficit” at the benefit gala for K.I.D.S. and Fashion Delivers. The first annual Women of Inspiration Luncheon features 60 Minutes Co-anchor Leslie Stahl as the guest speaker.

The Community Foundation for Greater Buffalo receives $350,000 in product and finds more mothers completed parenting classes when awarded merchandise for course completion. Additionally, the behavior of children in after-school programs improved when earned “citizenship stars” could be exchanged for model airplanes and toys.

Relief to Kurdish refugees began with $200,000 worth of donated merchandise flown in to Kurdish refugees fleeing Saddam Hussein’s army in Iraq. K.I.D.S. by laws are also amended to direct donated merchandise to domestic as well as international causes.

Kids In Distressed Situations (K.I.D.S.) was founded by children’s industry executives Karen Bromley, Fred Brown, Ezra Dabah, Andy Kahn, Carol Reisman, Mike Searles and Barbara Toback. Within 60 days, the children’s industry donated $250,000 of merchandise through the Adventist Development and Relief Agency to Ethiopian children suffering from famine.
A MESSAGE FROM OUR LEADERSHIP

How do we measure the impact of a new coat to someone living on the street? Or new bedding for a family whose home was destroyed by a flood? Or a pair of new shoes for a child who has just joined a foster family? 2016 was a year of tremendous accomplishments for Delivering Good, but this report tells the story of thirty-two years of impact as Kids in Distressed Situations, Fashion Delivers, and K.I.D.S./Fashion Delivers.

As you will learn, thanks to an extraordinarily generous community of donors, we provided a record $200 million + of new product to our community partners in 2016. We expressed our appreciation to our consistent financial supporters through our new Loyalty Circle. And we were there to address the needs of communities affected by natural disasters. Equally important, we focused on charting the course for the next thirty-two years with our strategic planning initiative. This report launches our new name, Delivering Good, as well as the rededication to our mission of helping to alleviate the effects of poverty and disaster by providing new products to those in need.

The needs are enormous, and the response takes the combined effort of industry, the philanthropic and community service sectors, and caring individuals. Thank you for the role you have played in Delivering Good. Please join with us to do even more.

With appreciation:

Allan Ellinger
Co-chair of the Board, 2016

In 2016, over 400 companies donated more than $200 million of new products that we distributed to more than 500 community partners nationwide. We estimate that we helped at least 250 million people last year. Monetary donations and other financial support help pay for programs, logistics, coordination and freight costs so that new product reaches the people who need it most. With community partners in all 50 states and around the world, and an overhead of less than 2%, Delivering Good is widely recognized for efficiently supporting people in need. Below are some selected highlights from 2016.

Delivering Good partnered with Burlington Stores and Good Morning America on The 2016 Warm Hearts and Warm Coats Drive; 147,911 new and gently used coats were collected for over 300 community charities nationwide. Coats are such a needed item that this is the only program we operate with gently used product. This was the 10th Anniversary of the coat drive for Burlington Stores and Good Morning America; the annual event has collected a total of 1,814,595 coats over the years.

BOBS from Skechers footwear manufactures shoes especially for donation, given to children in need. In 2016 we distributed one million pairs of kids’ shoes worth $15 million. Since 2011, Delivering Good has distributed more than 7.6 million pairs of these Skechers kids’ shoes. In addition, we coordinate with Skechers’ marketing and our community partners for 15 key market distributions each year.

The online retailer Kidbox curates fun and effortless shopping experiences, bringing parents and kids together to discover new styles. Through the Kidbox Cares program, parents and children are able to have an open conversation about how they can help children and families in need. For every full Kidbox sold, the company donates a piece of apparel to Delivering Good, with an ultimate goal of clothing one million kids.

Delivering Good works with the annual All Baby & Child trade show for juvenile product in Las Vegas to collect new and sample product donations from over 900 exhibitor companies in 3000 booths. At the end of the 2016 All Baby & Child trade show, we received donations of more than $80,000 in much needed product. The donations were distributed to Las Vegas area families in need through our community partners.

Three leading women executives were recognized at the K.I.D.S./Fashion Delivers 10th Annual Women of Inspiration Luncheon June 7, 2016 at the Pierre Hotel in New York City. The event raised over $315,000. The women honored for their professional and philanthropic achievements are (far left) Luanne Whiting-Lager, VP/CFO, Regal Lager, Inc.; (middle) Louise Camuto, Chief Creative Officer, Camuto Group; and (far right) Claudia Stern, Intimate Buyer, Gabriel Brothers. The luncheon co-chairs were (near left) Karen Bromley and (near right) Carole Postal.
In October 2016 we started our One Million Pairs of Socks campaign, conceived by Isaac Ash, the founder and president of United Legwear and Apparel Co. At a meeting of the American Apparel and Footwear Association (AAFA), Isaac challenged his colleagues to donate a million socks for homeless people, starting on World Homeless Day October 10, 2016. Socks are the item most requested by homeless shelters. Delivering Good and AAFA worked together to collect and distribute sock donations. By May 3, 2017, we were only about 50,000 socks short of the goal, and Isaac donated the final amount.

In August, prolonged rainfall in the southern part of Louisiana resulted in catastrophic flooding. K.I.D.S./Fashion Delivers secured nearly $8.5 million of apparel and home goods from retailers and manufacturers to help people in Baton Rouge recover. Working with the Urban League of LA and local community leaders, we helped over 5,000 families and other people in need.

We donated new product for holiday gifts for kids and families of the National Center for Child Development in Manhattan, and we even got to join in the giftwrapping! Employee teams from product donor companies Delta Children and Kidbox wrapped gifts donated by their generous companies and others, joined by other Delivering Good volunteers and board members. It was a great way to celebrate the holidays!

On November 9th at the American Museum of Natural History in New York City, the K.I.D.S./Fashion Delivers Annual Gala raised over $1.73 million to help provide new fashion, children’s and home product to people in need. The event featured two honorees, Richard Barry of Toys”R”Us and Marc Heller of CIT Commercial Services. Additionally, actress Dascha Polanco was recognized for her community support, and the companies Global Brands Group, PVH Corp. and Skechers USA were named as outstanding product donors.

The menswear retail stores Men’s Wearhouse & Jos. A. Bank from donor Tailored Brands, Inc. have provided over $61 million of suits, shirts, ties and dress shoes to Delivering Good for distribution to our community partners H.E.R.O.E.S. Care, Hands In Service and Caring For Others, which help active and veteran armed services members, other people in need and their families. We work directly with the retail chains to process truckloads of apparel and accessories each year, collected from their stores.
Dr. Flory is a member of Delivering Good’s Loyalty Circle, which recognizes supporters who have made monetary donations for two or more consecutive years. In 2016, nearly 200 other donors were part of the program.

“I appreciate the fact that the organization provides new clothes and other useful products to adults and children.”

“It’s important to recognize financial donors who regularly support us,” says Delivering Good President and CEO Lisa Gurwitch. “Building a strong network of donors allows us to provide hope and dignity every day. We’re so grateful for the generosity of our supporters—they enable us to touch the lives of millions in the U.S. and abroad each year.”

Financial donors help Delivering Good achieve its mission of supporting people impacted by poverty and disasters. Financial donations can include gifts of cash and securities, bequests and other planned gifts, grants from donor-advised funds and foundations, and employer matching gifts.

Delivering Good efficiently leverages cash donations to achieve its mission. For every $10 of cash contributed, over $100 of donated new product can be delivered to kids, adults or families in need. With the efficiency, quality of donations and impact on people in need, Delivering Good lives up to its name.

For 40 years, the Winter Park, Florida-based Edyth Bush Foundation, Inc., has continued the mission of its founder, the late philanthropist Edyth Bush, by creating innovative civic solutions to help families and children help themselves.

In 2002, its Board of Directors requested partnerships with leading nonprofit organizations to provide underprivileged central Florida families and children with essential needs—namely, food, clothing, shelter and employment.

“While the need for clothing is basic, it can nevertheless cost a family hundreds of dollars for just one person,” says David A. Odahowski, president & CEO of the Edyth Bush Charitable Foundation. “The gift of new clothes from Delivering Good brings a special smile to children and families in need—the same feeling we all have in wearing a new shirt or blouse.”

The Foundation’s grants to Delivering Good provide as much as $1,000,000 in product donations annually to communities in the metropolitan Orlando area, benefitting organizations including A Gift for Teaching, The Mustard Seed, Devereux, Second Harvest Food Bank of Central Florida, Harvest Time International and Jewish Family Services of Greater Orlando, Inc.

Delivering Good helps Orlando nonprofits tap into the generosity of the fashion and children’s industries,” says Odahowski. At the same time, he continues, “They’ve found a cost-effective means of turning the industry’s business challenges into a charitable solution for our community.”

Last year, Delivering Good surpassed the $1 million in product donations required by its Grant agreement with the Edyth Bush Foundation by more than 70 percent. “The return on investment has far exceeded our expectations,” says Odahowski. “While we can financially calculate the overall value, we’re most impressed by the return on generosity from the industry donors, as well as the volunteers who process the donations. It’s incredibly rewarding to see how much children and families appreciate their new clothing.”

While complimenting the mission of Delivering Good—providing dignity and self-esteem to at-risk children and families, courtesy of the product donors—Odashowski lauds the organization as a “collaborative, mission-driven model with a talented CEO and energetic team, all of whom are professional, creative and caring.” And ultimately, he emphasizes, “Generosity benefits business.”

Of the charity’s recently revamped name and marketing strategy, “Delivering Good’ says it all,” Odahowski adds. “It’s a powerful testament about the compassion of the industry, financial donors, volunteers and nonprofit agencies, as they work together to help people help themselves. Something as simple as a new shirt or pants genuinely gives people hope and shows that someone cares.”
WHY MY COMPANY GIVES

Isaac E. Ash, founder & CEO of United Legwear & Apparel Co., and his family.

United Legwear & Apparel Co. Founder & CEO Isaac E. Ash commends the clear and straightforward tagline of Delivering Good—“Helping Kids and Families” is precisely how his New York-based company has supported the organization for the past six years.

“Without an established infrastructure, it’s difficult to get the right product to the right people efficiently,” says Ash, who launched his company in 1998. Thanks to Delivering Good’s channels for merchandise distribution, he has seen firsthand that donated new product brings hope and dignity to those for who dearly need it.

Beyond merely donating product whenever it is available, Ash recognized a need for the most basic of items—socks. Last fall, he created the One Million Pairs of Socks campaign that was implemented by both Delivering Good and the American Apparel & Footwear Association (AAFA) as partners. “Socks and underwear are the most requested items by homeless people, and unlike coats or household items, donations cannot be ‘gently used’—they must be brand new,” he explains.

“Like many manufacturers, we have samples and periodically clear out inventory, so I asked Delivering Good and the AAFA to help coordinate the planning, logistics and marketing of a campaign to raise one million pairs of socks. I appealed to my colleagues on the AAFA’s Legwear Committee, proposing that we pool our resources and donate one million pairs in a major, concentrated effort. Instead of donating a few thousand pairs randomly during the year, this would help promote the need for socks at homeless shelters and other community organizations, while building a sustainable program to get the industry widely involved.”

As part of the One Million Pairs of Socks campaign, Ash has personally handed out socks at Jericho Project, a community of supportive services for New Yorkers in need. He has seen just how important a good pair of socks can be. Of the experience, he recalls, “What surprised me most is that despite their circumstances, the residents were just so happy and warm. When hard times fall on people, it’s not our job to judge—it’s our duty to help.”

Although United Legwear sells out-of-season merchandise as part of its business model, “It’s not at the expense of donations,” Ash continues. “Selling is necessary, but giving is the right thing to do. Many companies can plan for giving back by making a little more than needed in production orders, and building the donations into their brands.”

Collecting and distributing product may be the primary focus of Delivering Good, but Ash praises the organization for all of its accomplishments—including building annual programs and generating marketing for important causes. Combined, he continues, these efforts “... help people in need to a much greater degree by providing visibility and encouraging others to give.”

On May 3, 2017, Isaac Ash went even further than his initial donation of over 125,000 pairs of socks. By April 2017, the total sock count slowed down around 951,000 pairs. As Isaac accepted the 2017 Achievement Award from the Fashion Accessories Benefit Ball, he told the crowd that he would donate the last 49,000 pairs of socks to complete the campaign. Additionally, he named Delivering Good as a charitable beneficiary of funds raised at the event.

Isaac Ash provided the vision and motivation for United Legwear & Apparel and many other companies to give one million pairs of socks for the homeless and other people in need. Programs like this one can show how committed product donors can make a difference in the lives of people across the U.S. while Delivering Good.
Donations to Delivering Good provide millions of dollars’ worth of new apparel, home goods, toys, books, and other items every year to those with critical needs. Monetary gifts and grants help support programs, logistics, coordination, and freight costs. Since 1985, over $1.6 billion of donated product has been distributed, serving the poor and disadvantaged worldwide. Delivering Good recognizes with gratitude the individuals, corporations, and funding organizations listed below that have generously donated to support of our mission. Donor names listed with a heart (❤) are members of the Loyalty Circle, and have supported the organization in 2016 for at least two consecutive years. We have made every effort to accurately list the agencies that received donations from us in 2016. If your agency’s name has been left off this list, please contact us at contact@delivering-good.org.
HOW YOU CAN HELP

Support Us Financially
Moving donated new apparel, home fashions, toys, books and other items is a big effort. Financial support helps pay for programs, logistics, coordination and freight costs so that new product reaches the people who need it most. There are many different ways you can contribute to our mission.

Every individual gift is matched at a 10:1 rate. With a $25 donation, Delivering Good can distribute over $250 worth of goods to families and individuals in need. A $1,000 donation distributes over $10,000 worth of merchandise to those who need it most—imagine how many lives one gift can touch!

Many companies match contributions that employees make to charities. Check with your Human Resources Department for any process and forms to ensure the match is donated.

Support Delivering Good with a fundraiser to celebrate birthdays, anniversaries or memorials. Contact us to learn how other supporters have made their fundraisers successful. You can reach us directly by phone at 646-362-9085 or email at development@Delivering-Good.org

Support Us with Product
Donating new product offers manufacturers and retailers an efficient way to move inventory and give back to the many kids, adults and families in challenging situations. Whether it is a single box of samples or an entire truckload, you can help people in need.

When Delivering Good sends new merchandise to people in distressed situations, it provides them with hope and a sense of dignity, as well as letting them know that someone cares enough to give them something new.

Together we can help make a difference in people’s lives. The product donations reach individuals and families who are challenged by poverty, homelessness, domestic abuse, military family service, major illness, incarcerated family members and natural disasters.

The donation process is simple. Just submit a form online and we will contact you within 48 hours to coordinate logistics and answer any questions you may have about Delivering Good. You can reach us directly by phone at 646-362-9088 or email at product@Delivering-Good.org.
