

David Greenstein
Chief Executive Officer
Himatsingka America, Inc.

David is reputed as one of the consumer product's industries leaders, with particular expertise in both the textile and apparel fields. He is also an accomplished operator with over 30 years of experience, the last 15 years in an executive CEO role. In these roles, David has mastered the balance of the day-to-day rigors of running big business, with the need for creativity and leadership.

Among David's many achievements are the founding, building and eventual sale of Homestead to Li & Fung and the rebranding of London Fog and its sale to Iconix.

After having run the home division of Li & Fung in the U.S., David is now CEO of Himatsingka America, one of the U.S.'s largest wholesaler of home textiles, where he oversees the brand efforts for Calvin Klein, Kate Spade, Barbara Barry and the introduction of the world's first fully traceable cotton under the brands Pimacott and Homegrown.

David has a strong and enduring relationship with the senior management at most of the world's largest retailers, where he enjoys a hard earned reputation as a highly creative supplier, with an excellent track record for brand building and operational excellence.

David sits on the Board of the Home Fashions Product Association. He lives with his wife, Stacy, in Connecticut. They have five children and one grandchild.